

Cultural Commentary on Personalities

In North America, people have certain qualities that are liked, respected, and admired. Then, there are other qualities in people that are not liked or respected, but they are accepted, and tolerated, as long as they don't become too exaggerated. The characters in the video story demonstrate some of these qualities.